

Receive a Brand New
Tablet 10" / Laptop or 15% CASH BACK!

Fraud and Corruption: Transparency Governance and Leadership in Africa

9th – 13th October 2017

Durban, South Africa

Course Overview

The world of work is an increasingly challenging place, with demands from Government, shareholders and the community as stakeholders in our organizations. We recognise the need to support and encourage businesses to do their part in tackling the problems of fraud and corruption as part of a drive towards better corporate governance in business. This programme meets a growing need in the workplace to improve performance and reduce risk by challenging and addressing behaviours that lead to lack of transparency, accountability, fraud and corruption. Unlike any other, our programme aims to provide learners with a wide understanding of organisational context and practical investigation techniques. Transparency and accountability are widely acknowledged crucial elements of good public and corporate governance.

It is important for policy makers, law makers, executives and managers to be able to institute effective transparency and anti-corruption systems into public financial management, project management, public procurement and good governance, and get them embedded into the public service structure as the new culture in facilitating change and development. Therefore, this workshop aims to sensitize participants to the elements of good governance with emphasis on the vital roles of transparency, fraud curbing and anti-corruption.

Learning Objectives

Participating Delegates will have a clear demonstrable understanding of:

- Highlight the importance of transparency governance as a vehicle of promoting social-economic development.
- Help clients depart from the view that fraud is natural business wastage.
- Provide incentive to clients by effectively shaping systems of internal control and policies.
- Establish systems to enhance transparency governance, fraud curbing and anti-corruption.
- Develop understanding of governance, fraud and corruption in organisations

Who Should Attend?

Please Note: this workshop is tailored for the Top Executive Management Staff in Government, Semi-Government, Private Sector, Civil Society, Law Enforcement and Academic Institutions

- Permanent Secretaries or Principal Secretaries
- Commissioners -Chancellors
- Registrars -Principals
- Director Generals -Managing Directors
- Chief Executives -Executive Secretaries
- Directors -Management Staff